

Future stars: up-and-coming designers rule the roost at Maison et Objet 2016

DESIGN / 28 JAN 2016 / BY CHRISTOPHER STOCKS

Marco Guazzini's stained-marble centrepieces were on show at Galerie S Bensimon. Photography: Beppe Brancato

7 OF 31

Though as always there was more at Maison than anyone could hope to see, the galleries and studios in Paris itself had some particularly fine shows this January. Among the stalwarts, Carpenters Workshop Gallery offered lovely new colourways in Wonmin Park's 'Haze' collection, as well as a group of very characterful lamps-cum-sculptures by Mathieu Lehanneur. Equally intriguing were Marco Guazzini's stained-marble centrepieces at Galerie S Bensimon – which just goes to show that even a ubiquitous material can be reinvented in the hands of a thoughtful designer.

TAGS: FRANCE, MAISON ET OBJET

Design news

